A DICTIONARY OF BURA

[DRAFT PRINTOUT]

N.B. The present version of the Bura dictionary was prepared following a workshop in Jos, 24-25th April, 2009 and represents a major shift in terms of orthography, definitions etc. It will no longer agree with the original mimeo dictionary nor entirely with the New Testament orthography.

WHAT TO KNOW ABOUT INTERPRETING THE PRESENT MANUSCRIPT

The present document is a document in transition; I have checked parts of it and other parts have interpreted the original. The following points should be borne in mind when reading it.

- 1. Tone is only sporadically marked; some markings come from Russell Schuh's manuscript, others from my own transcription. No Bura speakers have yet been trained to mark tone accurately.
- 2. I have re-arranged verb roots into semantic nexuses; thus all nouns, verbs and other descriptive words that appear to derive from a root are listed below it and are thus not in strict alphabetical order. The extended roots are always in italics, as well as words where they appear in an expression. However, Bura semantics are less than transparent at time, so it is not always clear which words go together; when in doubt I have excluded extended forms pending further work. This is an experimental arrangement and could be reversed if found difficult to use.
- 3. The defects of the original orthography (absence of schwa, hooked letters and long vowels) have been only partly remedied, depending on what words the checkers were able to reach. I have therefore rearranged the alphabetical order as far as possible, but inconsistencies undoubtedly remain.
- 4. All assignments of parts of speech are mine. Where the definition is unclear, these may be wrong. In particular, it is hard to assign the category 'ideophone' to some adjectives and not others. Where the reference is obviously phonosemantic, I have done this, but with some misgivings.

1. Introduction

This is working draft of a dictionary of the Bura language. The original source material is a dictionary prepared at Garkida in the 1950s in conjunction with the Seventh Day Adventist Mission and mimeographed by Mrs. O. Shankster. A copy of this is in the library of the Seminar für Afrikanische Sprachen und Kulturen, Universität Hamburg, and I am grateful for the opportunity to make a xerox of it. The text of this copy was then entered into a word-processor by Mr. George Syder of Port Harcourt, through the kind offices of Professor Kay Williamson (†) and Nigernet.

The original introduction to the manuscript is given below. However, it should be emphasized that this is not a reproduction of the manuscript. It has been added to and amended using a manuscript wordlist of Bura prepared by Russell Schuh, as well as fieldnotes by RMB, particularly in the area of plants and musical instruments. The grammatical sketch in the introduction is by Roger Blench, and the phonology and orthography section was prepared in consultation with Andy Warren and the Bura Literacy Committee. It is circulated to other scholars as a courtesy but should in no way be regarded as a finished document and certainly not ready for press.

This is intended for checking and comment only and should not be considered a finished document.

In my copy of the original mimeo, pages 5 and 10 are incomplete; the Bura of page 5 is presently missing. As a result, the English definitions are found in the computer file but not the Bura forms. On page 10 they are partly obscured and so some Bura forms are incomplete.

2. Phonology

3. Morphology

3.1 Nouns

Almost all nominal plurals are formed by adding –(a) yeri to the end of the noun. Some examples;

Table 1. Standard plural patterns in Bura

Gloss	sg.	pl.
donkey	kwara	kwarayeri
fish	kilfa	kilfaeri
friend	pazhi	pazhyeri
guest	mutipi	mutipiyeri
he-goat	ciwa	ceryeri
river	zurka	zurkayari
she-goat	malgum	malgumayeri
stick	uzum	uzumayeri
thing	su	sugeri
sheep	tớmà	tớméérì

Some irregular or suppletive plurals are shown in Table 2;

Table 2. Suppletive plurals in Bura

Gloss	sg.	pl.
man	sal	shili
person/people	mji	mda
woman	mwala	mwanki
son	bzər	madar
daughter	nkwa	madankwi
young man	bzərdakwi	madadakwi
daughter	bzərnkwa	madankwi

Abstract nouns are formed by suffixing kùr or an adjective or a noun. Examples;

msirakùr	pleasantness
pdakkùr	goodness
nkyarkùr	childlikeness
mdəkùr	hospitality, helpfulness, service

kùr as a marker of abstract nouns is clearly widespread in the region as it also occurs in Huba (Mu'azu 2009).

A noun agent is formed by prefixing mdVr- or its allomorphs to a verb root. Examples;

mjir-tla-laku	highway robber
mdir-hila	thieves
mdir-6əla	shepherds
bzər-6əla	shepherd lad

3.2 Pronouns

Subject Pronouns

Singular		Plural
I	i'ya, i	we exclusive we inclusive	yeru mbru
		we dual	mwa
you	ga	you	giri
he, she, it	tsa	they	da

^{&#}x27;Iya is only used when the pronoun stands alone, 'i' before a word beginning with a vowel coalesces with the vowel and resembles the semi-vowel 'y'. 'Iata should be read almost as though it were 'yata'. 'Iadi' almost as though it were 'yadi'.

The first person plural has three forms:

- a) Yeru includes the speaker and a third person or persons, but excludes the person spoken to. Hence it is usually called the 'exclusive' first person plural.
- b) Mbru includes the speaker and the persons (plural) spoken to. Hence referred to as the 'inclusive' first person plural.
- c) Mwa includes the speaker and the person (singular) spoken to. Hence referred to as the 'dual' first person plural.

Object Pronouns

Direct Object (of a verb)

Singular		Plural
me	ra	us	yeru, mbru, mwa
you	nga	you	giri
him, her, it	ni	them	da
it	ri

Indirect Object (of a preposition)

Singular		Plural
me	i	us	yeru, mbru, mwa
you	ga	you	giri
him, her, it	ri	them	da

Exception: the preposition adsa (beside) takes the direct object pronouns.

The first person singular is always suffixed to the preposition and always eliminates the first vowel of the preposition.

	ahi (alsi)	to me	akihi (akilsi)	with me avi avi ada avi agiri avi ambru avi amwa avi ankia avi ankida	At home, to home At their home At your home At our home. (Incl At our home. (Dua At my home At his home	lusive)	akiii (akiisi)	with the avi ankiri avi ayeru	At your home At our home. (Exc	elusive)

3.3 Verbs

Many Bura verbs have a distinctive and unpredictable perfective form. Some of these involve internal vowel changes and look like old plurals or iteratives. Others follow the verb root and are probably fossilised extensions

Gloss	Present	Perfective
To admonish, command	tsáwá	tsóó

Gloss	Present	Perfective
To tie a child on the back	bang	bamta
To seek, want, like	bara	barata
To need, or lack	tur	turta

3.4 Adjectives

Adjectives almost always follows the noun they modify, except for shaŋ, kilera, which may be either before or after; hwada, which is usually before.

mfi shaŋ or shang mfi	all men mda kikara or kilara mda	any man hwada mji	some people (usually means most)

Adjectives may be intensified by partial complete reduplication, but this may also imply multiple items in terms of the noun qualified. E.g.

Table 3. Bura reduplicated adjectives

sg.	pl.	Gloss
gursu	gurgursu	Strong in physique
gursu	gursgursu	Hard (food not well-cooked) gurssa	gursgurssa	Rather hard guzhilipu	guzhilipguzhilipu	Long and thick (of hair, grass, etc.)
hyeaha	hyeahhyeaha	Slender, narrow kal	kalkal	Correct, exact

Comparison of Adjectives and Adverbs

Extended forms of Bura adjectives and adverbs imply weaker or less intensive qualities or actions. Instead of 'black, blacker', Bura speak of 'black, less black'. The first extension is formed by repeating the final consonant and adding 'a' e.g. mənggil, mənggil'la. This may be compared to our 'sort of black' or 'blackish'. Some adverbs have still another extension -tanga, with its allomorph -danga. Thus;

lang, lang nga, langtanga cold, less cold, still less cold alone, less alone, still less alone

The only way to compare 'up is to used the word 'ta' between the adjective or adverb and the word to which it is compared.

mənggilta blacker than mənggilta shang blackest of all

The Bura Writing System

The Bura language has been written for some time. Unfortunately, the existing system for writing Bura does not represent all the sounds in the language. Therefore, the system of writing should be based on the complete inventory of the sounds of Bura. It should be as logical as possible so that it will be easy to write. Finally, however, decisions on the writing system should be made by an orthography committee set up to discuss these problems. Only then will the writing system be adopted by the community.

Appendix 5 explains the main features of the Bura sound system in more detail and suggests a justification for the present writing system. Unfortunately, the sounds of Bura cannot be represented easily with the usual English alphabet. The additional letters are hooked 'b' and 'd' i.e. 6 and d. These will be familiar to anyone who is used to Hausa; many typewriters in Northern Nigeria have these letters on the keyboard. 'b and 'd are found in older documents prepared on typewriters, as in Hausa.

The order of letters is; a, b, b, d, d, e, ə, f, g, h, i, j, k, k, l, m, n, o, p, r, s, t, u, v, w, x, y, z.

There are also the digraphs; ts and dz which are written with two or more letters in English but are in fact only one sound. Technically speaking , 'ts' etc. are distinct sounds -however, for those familiar with the principles of English alphabetisation it is probably safer to treat them as made up of two separate letters. So 'pd' will be found inside the letter 'p' rather than as a separate heading.

A number of words have tentative spellings only; a final decision on how to write them has not been made.

Dictionary of the Bura Language and the Traditional Orthography

The dictionary of the Bura language and the associated Bible translation and other works represent a valuable achievement. However, a problem with these documents is that there are many sounds in Bura not adequately distinguished by the writing system. The most important of these are;

Name	IPA	Comment
Implosive b (Hook b)	6	not marked
Implosive d (Hook d)	ď	not marked
Schwa	Э	Words that contain a schwa are usually transcribed with 'i'
Voiceless velar ejective	ƙ	not marked
Voiceless velar fricative	X	Usually appears as an 'h'.
Voiced velar fricative	Y	Orthographically 'gh'
Glottalised palatal	ý
Glottalised labial	'w

The dictionary frequently contains two alternative forms spelled with 'b' and 'p'. The 'b' form has been preferred and the other eliminated from the text.

6. Structure of the Dictionary

The dictionary is divided into two parts; the Bura-English and English-Bura. The Bura-English is the most complete and contains the examples of the words in use -any word you look up in the English-Bura should be checked the other way round.

Apart from the main text there are a number of appendixes that explain certain things in more detail. These cover numbers, place-names, personal names, titles and also include some notes on Bura society to help explain topics such as traditional marriage. The outline is as follows;

- 1. Introduction
- 2. Bura-English
- 3. English-Bura (not yet prepared)

Appendixes;

- 1. Names of the months
- 2. Notes on Bura society
- 3. Names of Villages, Rivers and other Geographical features
- 4. Personal Names

Structure of individual entries

Each entry has the following order;

Bura word	part of speech	Meaning	Additional information Example;

Bura words are always in italics.

Under the meaning, a common English meaning is given. However, where plants and animals are included, the Latin name is also included. The Latin name is always in italics. Other meanings of a word are listed below the first meaning. Where a word is used in an idiom it is marked 'id.' and the literal translation of the idiom is given. Examples of the word in use are given first in Bura and then in a natural English translation. The original manuscript used a mixture of American and English spellings ('center' 'honor' etc.). All of these have now been regularised to English spelling since this is the official system in Nigeria.

Abbreviations

et. etymologically hum. humorous id. idiom lit. literally us. usually

Etymology and Loan-words

Not every word in the language is native to Bura; like English, Bura has borrowed words from other languages. The sources of many words have not been identified; however, obvious loanwords from other languages are marked in the text. The following abbreviations are used;

E. = English
 F. = Fulfulde
 H. = Hausa
 K. = Kanuri
 N. = Nupe
 Y. = Yoruba

Etymologies are sometimes given, showing the parts that make up a word.

Parts of Speech

Like all languages, Bura words can be classified according to the function they have in the sentence. These are known as 'parts of speech' -the most well-known types are nouns and verbs. The following table gives the abbreviations used in the dictionary with short explanations;

Abbreviation	Full form	Explanation
a.	Adjective	Describes a noun
adv.	Adverb	Qualifies a verb
aff.	Affix	A prefix or suffix
aux.	Auxiliary	Added to a verb to modify it, like a tense-marker
conj.	Conjunction	A word used to join two or more nouns, verbs or clauses
dem.	Demonstrative	Words used to point out something. 'this', 'that' etc.
excl.	Exclamation	Greetings or expressions that do not form part of an ordinary sentence
int.	Interrogative	Question words
n.	Noun	Refers to things, objects etc.
num.	Numeral	Number
part.	Particle	Short words added to complete the sentence
p.n.	Proper Name	A name of a person or object; always capitalised prep.	Preposition	A word positioning nouns or verbs in time or space
pron.	Pronoun	A word that stands for a noun
V.	Verb	Expresses action
v.a.	Verbal auxiliary	A particle placed next to a verb to change its tense or application
v.e.	Verbal extension	An affix added to a verb to extend its meaning
v.i.	Intransitive Verb	A verb with no object
v.t.	Transitive verb	A verb with an object

Needless to say, these categories were developed to describe English grammar and not all Bura words fit neatly into them. For example, it is sometimes difficult to distinguish verbs from adjectives. Only a clear grammatical description will help the reader understand the function of a word in a sentence. At that point, the assignment to a particular part of speech is somewhat arbitrary; what counts is consistency throughout.

ORIGINAL INTRODUCTION

The first edition of this Vocabulary was hektographed in 1941. The words and meanings were assembled by one of the language students, and a member of the Language Committee spent several months checking and hektographing. Even so, it was recognized that the work was by no means complete. Much more could have been done to make it better, but we did the best we could with the time and talents available, and we trust it has been better than nothing. The 1941 edition was a small one because we were quite sure that the list would be revised and enlarged very soon. Missionaries, new and old, were urged to collect new words for insertion in the revised edition. But it has been impossible to accomplish the task of preparing an adequate revision

At last, in 1953, with more than a dozen new missionaries studying Bura, the pressure for new books, any books, was so great that the Committee decided to mimeograph the existing Vocabulary, without waiting for time and opportunity to revise. (This decision was given its final boost when one of the language students volunteered to cut the stencils.) A few new words have been added. Only two lists were sent in, one when the work of stencil cutting was well under way, and the other after it was finished. Several pages of new words have accordingly been added at the back of the book which you may insert at the proper places in the alphabet if you wish

The time to start preparing the next edition of the Bura Vocabulary is NOW. And the person to start the ball rolling, and keep it rolling, is YOU. The Committee requests those missionaries who used the old Vocabulary and who have a list of words that are not included, to send in those lists, whether of ten words or a thousand. And new missionaries, if you come across words you cannot find in the Vocabulary, send them to the Committee. Will YOU make YOUR contribution?
